

I am writing in response to the proposal by the FCC to expand the LPFM service in such a way that would allow new LPFM stations to take priority over current FM translator service. In particular I am concerned about the effect this proposal would have on K-Love 90.3 in my area, this station is a great public service to the area since it is a commercial free. A person can listen to a positive influence, and can escape the never ending commercials for products and services. I don't have to monitor what is being said for fear of my grandchildren hearing things inappropriate for their age or even some things inappropriate for my age. IN this area we have plenty of rock, pop, oldies, country, new age, classic, and general radio stations, even religious radio station, but what makes K-Love 90.3 different is the positive, commercial free broadcasts. If this station were to be replaced by a LPFM station, it probably would not be as family-friendly or support the wholesome values, or have as an encouraging impact on the local community. I just encourage the FCC to consider the issues I have mentioned when make a decision that could effect so many people all across the nation.

Respectfully,

Anna J. Kuhlman
